Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 25 (AP)—This country at one time looked to Germany for guidance in forestry, and still does to some extent, according to experts at the New York State School of Forestry at Syracuse University but today Germany is turning toward the United States, where new developments in forestry have been evolved, for instruction in the preserving and marketing of its timber.
Richard Trendelenburg of Berlin, Germany, is studying American methods at the state school.
"I came here to study the technical utilization of woods," he said. He has studied at the universities of Freiburg and Munich in his own country.
"The equipment of educational institutions in forestry in the United States is better than in German schools," according to Herr Trendelenburg, "but the public in America does not regard the forests with as much understanding and solicitude as the people of Germany do. Destructive logging would not be allowed in Germany, if for no other reason than public opposition. People do not set fires in German forests. The population takes a keen interest in the existence and perpetuation of forest growth. In many communities, especially where the population is dense, they go into the woods and clean up the lumber jobs by removing limbs and branches left by the lumbermen. This material is used for firewood."

PICKEREL ARE DESTROYING TROUT IN LAKE GEORGE.
Lake George, N. Y., Jan. 25 (AP)—Unless something is done to prevent the pickerel in Lake George from devouring the trout, the waters of Old Horicon will be devoid of lake trout within a few years, according to James S. Royce of Warrensburg, assistant state superintendent of fish hatcheries.
Last fall, when Mr. Royce attempted the netting of trout for their spawning he was able to secure a mere "handful" of eggs, a fact which he attributed to the pickerel that infest the lake's waters. Scarcely of ice fish also is attributed to the pickerel.
As a possible remedy it has been suggested that the law protecting pickerel be abolished or held in abeyance for a few years, until anglers are able to exterminate them or at least materially reduce their numbers.

CITIZENSHIP GRANTED ILLEGAL IMMIGRANT

If a foreigner is good enough to serve in the U. S. Army, he is good enough for citizenship, contended Supreme Court Justice McReynolds, when he admitted Carl August Roberkolt, a Danish subject, with six others, to United States citizenship at Newburgh recently.
The admission of Roberkolt was challenged by United States Naturalization Examiner Lester L. Siegel, who charged that the man, now serving his second term of enlistment at West Point, entered the country illegally. The Dane, it was said, entered the United States by deserting a ship on which he was employed.
After remarking that if a man is good enough for the army he is good enough for citizenship, Justice McReynolds said to Siegel, "This man will be sworn in as a citizen and you can move later to revoke the papers if you so desire."

Ancient Wood Sculpture
One of the earliest specimens of wood sculpture extant is in the Cairo museum. With the exception of the arms, it is carved out of a solid block of sycamore wood. It is a life-size portrait statue, a double of the Sthenel-Belad. The figure dates back to about 4000 B. C.

Calls for Good Memory
A system has been evolved which makes it possible for Chinese to read their own language after becoming familiar with only 1,000 characters. Formerly, for any degree of literacy, a knowledge of the 40,000 characters of the Chinese language was necessary.

LINCOLN, LEE WERE RELATED

Opposing Leaders in Civil War Descended From Same Ancestor.

Two facts—Abraham Lincoln was a descendant of the famous Lee family of Virginia and was directly related to the man with whom he contested the life of the nation, Gen. Robert E. Lee.

There was not, as popular belief would have it, the product of unbridled passions. Though born in a log cabin, he was but two generations removed from the stately mansions of one of the proudest families in the nation's history.

These startling revelations come from the most authoritative of American historians, the result of careful research conducted by Dr. William E. Barton, an able genealogist and one of the best known authorities on Lincoln. They are published for the first time in Good Housekeeping Magazine.

Doctor Barton, who is, incidentally, the father of Bruce Barton and the author of the widely read work on Lincoln, traces the descent of both the President and the general in the direct line back to Col. Richard Lee, one of the earliest of American aristocrats.

The Documentary Proof.

"I am about to show, and for the first time," he writes, "that Abraham Lincoln sprang from the family stock that gave to the South and the nation some of its greatest and most aristocratic names. There has been no romance enough. This is a plain and truthful tale."

To establish this "plain and truthful tale," Mr. Barton spent years examining documents in dusty, forgotten files in old Virginia, whence the Lees and Lincolns came. Old marriage records, dating back to the first days of the colonies, records of wills and property transfers were carefully combed and sifted for a period of years. And now the blood-relation of these two men, who were thought to have nothing in common but their hold on the love of their countrymen, is revealed.

Col. Richard Lee, the Good Housekeeping article shows, came to America from England in 1612. He had a son, Richard Lee, through whom the descent passed in a direct male line to the famous general of the Confederate forces.

But Col. Richard Lee had another son, whose name is not recorded, and that son named William. This William Lee had many sons, and one of them was named William, also. This second William had a daughter, Ann, who married one Joseph Hanks, owner of estates contiguous to the Lee plantation. And Ann Lee Hanks was the great grandmother of Nancy Hanks, who married Thomas Lincoln, June 12, 1811, and became on Sunday, February 12, 1829, the mother of Abraham Lincoln.

It is not strange that this information should have remained hidden for so long after the deaths of both the men whose blood ties this thread of the blood ties that bound them to his respected ancestor.

Lincoln to Lincoln declared himself to have descended from two of what he called "second or undistinguished" families of Virginia. Of his ancestry on his mother's side he possessed little knowledge and was disinclined to discuss it. He probably did not know what county his mother's people came from.

On that Hanks ancestry, of which he knew little and apparently not much, was one of the proudest names in America, even apart from its connection with the Lees. It goes back to Thomas Hanks, a Cromwell adherent, who fled England in 1643, and settled in Virginia on land adjoining that of Col. Lee, an ardent supporter of King Charles I. "The loyalist ancestor of Robert E. Lee and the rebel ancestor of Abraham Lincoln were next-plantation neighbors in Gloucester county."

Were They Mayflower Stock?

The Good Housekeeping author draws another conclusion of large historical interest from his Lincoln-Lee researches.

"We think," he says, "of the Puritans of New England as far removed from the Cavaliers of Virginia; but how many of us know that a few of those same Puritans went South and mingled their blood with that of the first families of Virginia. Perhaps, if we knew all the maternal lines, we should find that both Robert E. Lee and Abraham Lincoln were Mayflower descendants."

For, he demonstrates, "Col. Isaac Allerton of Plymouth, whose father was Isaac Allerton of the Mayflower, moved South and made his home among the Lees. His daughter, Sarah Allerton, became the second wife of Col. Richard Lee's son, Hancock."

It was from Col. Richard Lee that both Abraham Lincoln and Robert E. Lee were descended.

About Town In New York

(By F. G. Coughlin)

Seeing New York is something like being in the army. You know where you will go next. There is something stimulating about a New York crowd, something gay in the face of the light and color. And often you seem a holiday man. The heart of Broadway with its festive decorations and its anything from an airplane and over the city to a bus ride to Chinatown, is quite apt to put a holiday fever into our bones.

Because of the mercenary mood of mankind in the metropolis, it is almost impossible for one to plan his pleasure ahead of time. If one decides, for instance, to visit one of New York's fine parks on a day of sunshine, one invariably is reminded to the entrance of some handsome doorman and finds himself spending the afternoon in one of the dazzling Broadway theatres.

It must have been due to this chance prompting of circumstances that sent us to Chinatown the other evening. We left the theatre fully intending to return home for dinner, when one of our party (a New Yorker by the way who had never visited Chinatown) suggested taking a trip. Having a natural distrust for tours and guides, we decided to find the place alone.

A subway carried us to South Ferry, where a change was made to a Third Avenue L. One disembarks at Chatham Square. From here it is but a few steps off the Bowery to the famed Mott and Pell street section. Anyone with even a mild desire for adventure will prefer prowling alone about the streets of Chinatown to going single file behind an obsequious and bored guide.

Chinatown has a number of gift shops for the tourists and visitors where the last for souvenirs can be appeased for a few pennies. Here the streets are picturesque, narrow, and it often requires acrobatic maneuvers to keep on the narrow sidewalk. One finds the Chinamen friendly; the small boys at their play cluster up the streets and pay little heed to passers-by. As our party eagerly pressed its special investigations, our course ran counter to that of one of the big tourist parties, and we were led to the observation that it is always more romantic to eschew Baedekers. And while our more conventional friends were peering in mass into a Mission House, a theatre and a joss shop, we hid ourselves to an upstairs restaurant where patrons sat on square stools eating from hand-carved, marble-topped tables.

In this dining room there were Chinamen in their shirt sleeves eating with their chopsticks; there was a music-box spilling out shrill music in the Chinese tongue. A very friendly waiter brought us gallons of tea, and course after course of excellent food. So bountiful was this feast that we spent a full two hours eating. Upon leaving, a friendly cashier dispensed with a fair trinket in the interests of subsequent patron-

Lots Of Other Remedies Failed---Nu-Erb Helped Her---Just The Same

This Lady Is Amazed At Quick Result Obtained
From Famous Herbal Medicine—Whole System Improved

"My health in general is much better thanks to the new medicine," said Mrs. Henry Williams, New Paltz, N. Y., several days ago as she related to the Nu-Erb specialist at McBride Drug Store, 312 Wall street, how wonderful medicine has helped her to regain her lost health.

"I was in very poor health because of stomach and kidney troubles. After each meal I suffered agonies from indigestion and large quantities of gas formed in my stomach which pressed against my heart causing severe pains and heartburning. My kidneys were in a very weakened condition. I suffered from a sharp pain across my back so badly that at times I could hardly straighten up. It was necessary for me to get up several times each night to relieve my kidneys. I would also get darting pains through my shoulders, arms and limbs. I became very nervous. Was subject to frequent headaches. Slept poorly at night and had no appetite.

"Since taking the Nu-Erb, however, my entire system has improved wonderfully. I can now eat a full meal and have no trouble after from indigestion, gas or any other distress in my stomach. My kidneys are much stronger and the pains and aches have disappeared. Most times I sleep soundly all night long and I feel much more refreshed and energetic when I awaken in the morning. It has also relieved the headaches. Given me a good appetite and strengthened my nerves. I will cheerfully recommend this splendid medicine to anyone."

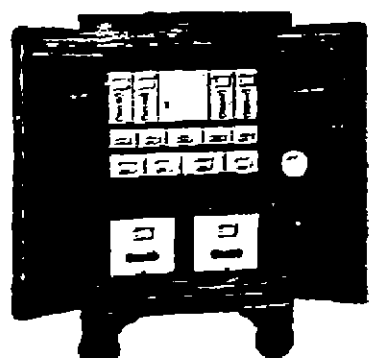

THE NU-ERB MAN.

BANDIT BOWS TO WOMAN IN ROUGH AND TUMBLE FIGHT

Lands Knockout Blow After Hour's Struggle With Corsican Brigand.

Albany, Conn.—Ability to use her fists and the courage to battle with an Amazonian fury against a ruthless and armed desperado saved Miss Janssen, 31-year-old, from the clutches of Italian bandits. Corsican bandit, who the woman writer was taken prisoner by the brigand after he had held up a motor coach in which she was touring on the island of Corsica.

The bandit, after forcing Miss Janssen, two women accompanying her, a French tourist, and the driver of the coach to deliver up to him all their money and jewelry, compelled the poet to accompany him into the brush at the point of a rifle, having announced his intention of holding Miss Janssen as a hostage.

Fear Drove Her to Fight.
After she had walked in the brush for an hour or more, Miss Janssen, realizing that she was putting herself completely in the power of the bandit, suddenly jumped at him and tried to disarm him. She succeeded in knocking the rifle from his grasp and struggled for a long time like a wrestler.

Both the writer and the highwayman were bleeding from scratches all over their arms and faces, for Miss Janssen employed scratching and biting as well as punching. She found herself stronger than her opponent and lashed out with both hands in a furious offensive.

"I think we must have fought for an hour without any intermission," Miss Janssen said in describing her experiences. "We both became so weak we could hardly stand on our feet. I was a mass of bruises. He was so groggy he could hardly see. When it seemed I must have to give up and permit him to kill me, for he was armed with a pistol and a knife, a fresh wave of strength seemed to pass through me.

Landed Knockout Punch.
"I made a final lunge at him. I caught him under the heart, and he went down like a felled steer. He was unable to get up."

Heaten and discouraged, Battisti called Miss Janssen a fiend, telling her he did not want a woman like her as a prisoner and for her to leave him.

His experience with this Amazon must have broken Battisti's nerve, for the police arrested him a few days later. He is now awaiting trial on enough charges to send him to the guillotine.

Jail Authorities Can't Get Rid of Prisoner

Chatham, Ont.—Cyrille Tichack insisted on staying in Chatham jail. All efforts to induce him to leave the institution have failed. Faced by a problem without precedent, Gov. Milton Shaw admits he is perplexed. Several times the prisoner has been escorted to the door and told to leave. Tichack doesn't understand English very well and he insisted on staying. Lately more drastic measures were taken. He was driven downtown in a motor car and, after much persuasion, was induced to get out. But the man was back at the jail before the car returned, waiting to be let in. Tichack has no friends, no money.

Charged Clothes Line Kills Mother and Child

New Orleans.—A three-year-old child lost his life here when he ran to his mother who had been electrocuted while hanging out laundry on a clothes line which had become charged with electricity.

Mrs. Paul Thibodeaux, forty-two, cried out when the current passed through her body and the next instant was dead.

Her child, Paul, who had been playing nearby, heard the cry and rushed to his mother. The current killed him.

Wrecked by Cow

Freemont, Neb.—Observing a cow, chased by a dog, racing down the road toward him, Lloyd R. Ballard stopped his driver. The cow ran head on into Ballard's car, smashing the windshield and badly cutting the driver on the hands and face.

LIVES DESPITE AUTOS

Cornell, N. Y., Jan. 25 (AP).—Autos may come and horses may go, but the Mutual Vigilance society continues on forever.

The organization, composed originally of a group of men whose purpose was to bring horse thieves to justice, continues to meet here weekly, elect officers, read old and new tales of the future when the society of fate may restore it to its rightful place.

The society was organized, September, 1888, with 47 members, seven of whom still live in Cornell. Its early activities were supported by each member with a branding iron with which to mark the horses, buggy, harness or tools. The theft of any article so marked was reported to the society and each member became a detective on the trail of the thief. Some of these branding irons are used still to mark various articles about the homes of the members.

The business sessions of the annual meetings are short and at their close the members lay back in their chairs, fill the room with smoke and recall the past when a horse trade was an important item of news.

Bold Cleric Goes To Pastorate In Rat-Infested Isle

Carrying a supply of rat poison, the Rev. Augustus Partridge has sailed from Southampton for his new post, Tristan da Cunha, a lonely island overrun by rats.

By Phyllis I. Lipsey, Jr. (Associated Press Staff Writer). Southampton, Eng., Jan. 25 (AP).—An adventurous clergyman, the Rev. Augustus Partridge, sailed from here today for his new station in "the world's loneliest island," Tristan da Cunha.

The dauntless padre—a bachelor—already has suffered the perils and hardships of frontier posts in distant South African and South American fields.

With his Bible and "vest pocket" organ, as inspiration and aid to his labors, Mr. Partridge is taking with him to Tristan a huge supply of rat poison. For rats are the fiercest creatures in this lonely ocean oasis.

The traveling preacher—still on the sunny side of middle-age—has a vigorous frame and trim figure. It was just last month that he returned home to London from his ministry in Brazil. But when he heard that the chaplain at Tristan da Cunha was sick and must be relieved, he volunteered at once for the unenviable task.

After serving during the war in the British Red Cross, Mr. Partridge entered the Anglican ministry and soon responded to the call to foreign service in the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel. He went out to South Africa and in the Johannesburg mining district—rough and unruly as mining countries are—he took charge of three churches, one of these for natives.

"I had to rush about from one church to another on my motor bike," he said in relating his adventures before he sailed today, "and they called me 'the Flying Parson'."

"One day a native woman came running to me, her face streaming with blood. She had been attacked by some superstitious persons, both Christian and non-Christian, who charged that she had buried a charm in front of the church and caused the death of a native doctor."

"I put on all my canonical vestments to overawe the crowd. Then I went out and dug up the ground myself to show them there was no charm there. I had to excommunicate the church members who had attacked the poor woman."

After other like trials, Mr. Partridge was transferred across the Atlantic to Santos, the great Brazilian coffee port. The young clergyman found this city a strenuous field. Carousing sailors, reckless beachcombers, and down-and-outers of many nationalities destroyed the peace of the place and made his life one fight after another.

But in his new island station the preacher no longer will have to struggle with violent men and worse women. Tristan's population is not much more than 100. The farmers and fishermen are described as moral and religious, industrious and hospitable; they have no alcoholic liquors, and they have no crime among them.

The new chaplain will have charge of the education of the children of the island, who are contented prisoners on the little area of 35 square miles.

Too Exacting

One day a fashionably dressed man entered Howell's music store in Bristol and asked to see some piano music. Howell put before him the latest sonatas, just published. The stranger looked at them, then said:

"I do not care for these. I do not like them, show me something better."

"Something better?" Howell exclaimed rather impatiently. "There is nothing better! I am sorry not to be able to serve you. Good day, sir."

The stranger smilingly replied: "I have written these myself. I am Haydn."

At which Howell fell on his neck overjoyed to make the acquaintance of the great composer. They became fast friends.—Kansas City Star.

Russian Music At St. John's

So much interest is being shown in the special musical services given at St. John's Episcopal Church on the last Sunday evenings in each month that the organist and choirmaster, Robert Williams, is planning to carry them through the entire season.

This coming Sunday night at 7:45 o'clock the program will be almost exclusively that of Russian music, very interesting and metropolitan in character. The three choruses are hauntingly beautiful and the organ numbers will be found to be decidedly "different" and very appealing.

The full program follows:
Processional, God the All-terrible... —Lvov
Magnificat, Gregorian Chant, Tone VIII, Solemn Form.
Credo and Prayers.
Hymn for the Offertory—Fierce Was the Wild Billow (in Russian style). —Noble
Anthem, O Gladsome Light (Candle Lighting Hymn).....Kostelsky
Organ:
a The Kieff Gate.....Mussorgsky
b Cradle Song (Mansueto)..... —Minsky-Williams
Anthem, To Thee We Sing..... —Gretchenbush

Organ:
a Basso Ostinato.....Borodin
b Eastern Romance..... —Rimsky-Korsakov
Anthem, Ave Maria.....Technikowsky
Vesper Hymn, Saviour, Breathe an Evening Blessing.....Bortnitsky
Recessional, Come, Thou Almighty King..... —Giardini
Next month the music will consist of Lenten music.

STUDENTS FAVOR FOOTBALL TEAM WITHOUT A CAPTAIN

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 25 (AP).—The Student Senate at Syracuse University has declared itself opposed to the selection of any football captain for the coming season.

The captainless team would be an experiment at Syracuse. In its favor the argument has been advanced that as many members as possible of the football team should have the experience of directing the play on the field. Various members of the team would assume the leadership for different games.

The action of the student body is not final as the charter does not give authority over organized athletics, but the moral effect of its decision is expected by university officials to have weight with the athletic governing board.

In Memoriam.

In loving memory of Jane J. Roosa, who departed this life January 25, 1929, seven years ago today. Gone but you are not forgotten. Beyond the storm there's a place of sacred rest far beyond the skies where beauty smiles eternally and pleasure never dies. My Father's home, my Heavenly home, where many mansions stand prepared by hands divine for all who seek the Heavenly home. While she lies in peaceful sleep her memory shall always keep: the rolling stream of life rolls on but still the vacant chair recalls the voice, the smile of the one who once sat there.

Probing Death Of Byron Snyder

The mystery surrounding the injuries and the subsequent death of Byron Snyder, aged Woodstock resident, on January 14, last was still unsolved at noon today when an adjournment was taken until afternoon by Coroner W. Norman Conner in the inquest held by him in the Methodist Hall, Woodstock.

The fact that an automobile was heard being driven rapidly and then suddenly stopped at a point near where one of Mr. Snyder's rubber boots and his eye glasses were found in the roadway was brought out in the testimony of Miss Cornelia Kamoll, who is manager of the Annex of the Old Woodstock Inn. Another fact brought out was that the man's shoes and socks were found placed neatly under the bed in his room, while Mr. Snyder was in the custom of leaving them on the floor, wherever he would take them off.

Mr. Snyder was injured on Sunday, January 6, but it was not known until the following day when his sister, Mrs. Nettie Dart, who made her home with her brother, returned from New York city and found the house cold, the heater fire out and her brother in his room, so badly injured that he barely could speak.

Death was due to eight broken ribs, followed by lobar pneumonia. About 35 witnesses were subpoenaed for the hearing and the hall was filled with spectators. District Attorney Traver and LeVan Harver conducted the examination of witnesses.

QUESTION BOX SERVICE AT REDEEMER CHURCH

At the regular monthly question box service at Redeemer Lutheran Church Sunday evening, the pastor, the Rev. O. E. Brandt, will answer a number of very timely questions. Among them are:

Can we believe in Christ and in creeds at the same time? How can I attain happiness? What is the primary objective of the Christian church? Why should I belong to the church when I find hypocrites there? How can we increase friendliness between Catholics and Protestants and the various denominations? How can I regain my former faith? What is Sin? Must we not alter the old ideas of sin?

These services have proven interesting. Members and friends are invited to send in their questions. It is not necessary to sign a name. There will be no bulletin this week.

The confirmation class heretofore will meet on Friday evenings at 6:30 o'clock.

FIRE DAMAGES JOHNSON'S STUDIO AT SAUGERTIES.

A fire that started in Jopson's photograph studio, situated on the second floor of the two-story stucco structure of the Saugerties Gas Light Company, on Main street, Saugerties, partly destroyed the building Thursday morning. Two hours of fire fighting were required to check the flames that caused considerable damage to the apartment of Mrs. A. S. Schumaker, adjoining the studio. Jopson's loss is estimated at $1,500, which is partly covered by insurance. While cutting a hole in the roof, Kenneth Martin of Washington Hook & Ladder Company cut his hand severely on the tin. He was attended by Dr. James Krom.

"Pa" Stribling Armory Boxing Talks of Coming Card for Tonight Bout in South

The stage is set for the card of four encounters to be staged at the local armory tonight under the auspices of the First Battalion, 156th Field Artillery, New York National Guard. The curtain raiser is scheduled for 8:30 o'clock and from that time on there promises to be plenty of action.

Following is the program:

Feature Attraction.

Special 4-rounders.
Nick Zinna of Kingston vs. Johnny Turner of New York city, instead of Bert Lamb as previously scheduled.
Kid Rash, New York, vs. Benny Brustof, Brooklyn.
Bill Freeman, negro heavyweight, contender of West Point, vs. Chief Halbran, New York.

Three 4-rounders.
Jimmy Morris of New York city will fight an opponent to be selected today instead of meeting Frency Dawkins of this city. Frency is of the card because he fought at Poughkeepsie Thursday night. He knocked out his opponent, Frank Kolar of the metropolis, in one minute and 55 seconds of the second round.

Joe Myers, Kingston, vs. Tom Norden, Highland.

And last but not least, the quartet of stanzas that will be presented by two boxing comedians, said to be the best in their line.

Christner Fights Sharkey Tonight

New York, Jan. 25 (AP).—K. O. Christner, the rubber tire industry's gift to the heavyweight ranks, is confronted with the chance of a lifetime. A knockout victory for him over Jack Sharkey would automatically show Sharkey out of his match with Young Stribling at Miami Beach, February 27, at the same time there is more than a chance that such an upset would establish the Akron Rubber worker as an entirely adequate substitute for Sharkey against Stribling.

Christner and Sharkey battle tonight in Madison Square Garden.

The Akron battler's impressive record of 37 knockouts in 44 fights has not disturbed "wise" bettors in the conviction that Sharkey will win, and win decisively. Despite the Boston sailor's mercurial inconsistency, most experts believe he will dispose of Christner, if for no other reason than that he must if he is to meet Stribling at Miami Beach.

Christner was virtually unknown until two months ago when he won by knockout over Knute Hansen, the melancholy Dane, at that time considered one of the leading contenders for the throne Gene Tunney vacated. Christner is tough, can take it and can hit but he does not begin to compare with Sharkey in boxing skill nor in all-around "class."

Will Marry "Strangler" Lewis.
Chicago, Jan. 25 (AP).—Miss Elaine Tomaso, of Glendale, Calif., daughter of the late Salvatore Tomaso, director and composer, will be married soon to Ed (Strangler) Lewis, former heavyweight wrestling champion, she announced last night. The date of the marriage was not revealed.

Fights Last Night.
(By the Associated Press.)
Jackson, Mich.—Johnny Risko, Cleveland, outpointed Tot Jackson, Washington Court House, Ohio (10).
Yonon City, Ind.—Roscoe Hall, Mason City, outpointed Jackie Hammett, St. Paul, Minn. (10).

Man at the Head
Today as always, the size of the man at the head is of more importance than the size of the business.—Roger W. Babson.

Results of the Industrial Games for Newburgh Five

In the industrial basketball league games played at the Y. M. C. A. court Thursday night, the Athletics defeated the Schillings 25 to 16. Central Hudson was defeated by the Silk Mills, 42 to 20, and Hercules had an easy time defeating the Brigantines 51 to 20.

Schillings in their game with the Athletics took the lead early in the first quarter but before the opening period was over the winners had stepped in front. The Athletics took many shots in the early stages of the game but few found the hoop for a score. The Schilling defense was very effective throughout the first half which compelled their opponents to take many shots from the middle of the floor. Granger made several and this aided in giving the Athletics the edge at half time 13 to 7.

Throughout the second half the Schilling quintet gathered only 3 points while the Athletics collected 16. For some reason or other in the last period Schillings were unable to hold the Athletics. Although the winners lacked teamwork they seemed to make field goal after field goal. The final score was Athletics, 29, Schillings, 10.

The Silk Mills scored an unexpected victory over the Central Hudson in the second game of the night. The Central Hudson team was out in front at the end of the first quarter but in the second session the Silk Mills broke loose and at half time had their opponents 19 to 11.

The game was hard played from the opening to the closing whistle. Merrill of the Silk Mills was the leading individual scorer with 25 marks beside his name. The final score was 42 to 20 in favor of the Silk Mills.

The last game of the night was a run-away for the Hercules team against Brigantines. The Hercules five started to score as soon as the game began but it wasn't until some time after that the Brigantines team first scored. In the last 10 minutes of the first half, Porzie caged two shots from scrimmage and M. Tiano sunk one from the middle of the floor. The score at half time was 33 to 7 in the Hercules favor.

In the second half the Brigantine scored only now and then while Van Etten of Hercules rolled up 24 points. The final tally was Hercules, 51, Brigantine, 20.

PORT EWEN K. OF P. TEAM MEASURES POUCHKEEPSIE

The Port Ewen Knights of Pythias team romped to a 49-29 victory over the Poughkeepsie Presbyterians, whom they scalped several weeks ago at the Bridge City, when Van Etten went on a scoring rampage at Port Ewen. Thursday, and contributed 27 markers to the Port Eweners' total. Two men sent against him, one in the first and another in the second half, failed to phase the shooting ace of the tilt. Dan Joyce trailed Van Etten with 14 points, while Brown of the Poughkeepsie team controlled 12 markers for his five.

The win set the Knights right for their second tilt of the season with the Y's Men of Kingston, to be played at Pythian Hall, Port Ewen, next Thursday night.

The Shooting Stars, who played a fine defensive game and dropped the ball through the hoop from all ranges, outscored the Lightnings 24-26 at Salvation Army Hall, North Front street, Thursday night. The Stars got off to an early lead and managed to keep the Lightnings at a respectable distance from their basket throughout the tilt. The winners tallied all their points on field shots. ## SWEDISH RUNNING STAR READY FOR RACES HERE

New York, Jan. 25 (AP).—Provided he gets sanction from the Amateur Athletic Union, Edwin Wide, Sweden's long-striding schoolmaster, will begin his American running invasion here tomorrow night.

The holder of the world's outdoor two-mile record has entered a special 1,500 meter run at the Masonic grounds to be held here tomorrow in the 102nd Engineers' armory.

The race, an extra added attraction, will be at a comparatively short distance for Wide. He is at his best at two miles or more. Officials of the Masonic meet are seeking a representative field to provide opposition for the Swedish star.

Red Shields at Port Jervis.

The Red Shields, under direction of Dan Joyce, will go to Port Jervis tonight to take on the high school variety of that place. The "Red Shields" lineup will consist of Harold Smith, Ernie Smith, Shorn, Mason, Buchholz and Joyce. All players are requested to be at the Y. M. C. A. at 5:30 o'clock so that an early start may be had.

Kingston Ready Yankees The Ringmaster In American League

Kingston High School is all ready to go to Newburgh, Academics' quarter when the two meet to compete at Kingston High School gymnasium at 8 o'clock. Recent practice proved the Kingston boys are schooling well and are in good condition for tonight's court war.

He likely will send the following men to start the game: Seipel and Blake forwards; Lowe, center; Barclay and Chumas, guards.

Coach Kins of Kingston High School, hopes on opening the local sports attack with Plantinger and Blackwell, forwards; Brennan, center; Clarke and Parks, guards.

Coach Stevens of Newburgh has put special stress on the passing game in recent workouts. He stresses on this method of scoring in the local gym, which has a low ceiling that makes long shots difficult. He likely will send the following men to start the game: Seipel and Blake forwards; Lowe, center; Barclay and Chumas, guards.

News of the Day In Wall Street

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP).—With a rampant market, more or less under control, and the stock market generally in a state of confusion, the New York market today was a study in contrasts.

Although the 32-seater was the favorite of many investors, the market was a study in contrasts. The various stocks of the market seemed to have a life of their own, and the market was a study in contrasts.

No Complete Leisure Even for Richest Man

Someone wrote the other day of a man who has leisure twenty-four hours every day.
There is, of course, no such man. Combine the hours a man needs for eating, sleeping, dressing, cleaning himself up, selecting the food and clothing he needs, cutting his finger and toe nails, looking after his hair, making daily calls on kin and neighbors and receiving their calls, cutting his coupons and checking up his bank account (providing he has all the money he wants, which no man ever had in history); scrubbing about the nuisances in his neighborhood (dog in mine in annoying twenty-four hours every day; is it any wonder I devote some time, also, to cursing those persons who say a dog is man's best friend?) and he will have plenty to do. Ever so often he must take his automobile to be looked over; and once a month his bills must be checked up and paid. Then there is his income tax to pay; the call of the assessor; there are frequent visits to the dentist—a rich man supposed to have nothing to do may be the busiest man in town.—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

Working Principle of Explosive Engine Old

The basic idea of the explosive engine was conceived long before the appearance of steam. In 1680 Huygens described an explosion motor which was to be operated by discharging a quantity of powder to drive the air out of a cylinder and raise the piston. To that point, his engine relied on a force somewhat similar to the working principle of those today, but the useful work was to be done by the piston being forced down by the pressure of the atmosphere against it, thus lifting a weight or doing some other task. There is no record that this engine ever was operated. The steam engine of 1705 functioned on about the same plan, that is, steam was used to lift the weight of the piston, and after this was done, the atmospheric pressure was relied upon for the real work. After Huygens, almost 100 years passed before inventors caught the vision of rotary motion from their engines. His idea simply involved a piston and a cylinder.

A young man we would rather not be, at this time, is a private who, while AWOL, in Tacoma, called up his commanding general and told him to come down to a cafe and show the chef how to fry eggs as directed.

With a recent experience fresh in mind, the Office Crab is planning to enroll in a good medical school long enough to learn to carve a turkey.

Valuable Gifts For Senate House

Joseph H. Forsyth, who recently gave several portraits by John Van Dusen to the trustees of the Senate House Association, has added to that important contribution a superb open top Franklin automobile with optional leather wheels and upholstery and a built-in spare tire and spare wheel. Mr. Forsyth also has presented the trustees with a rare single diamond, a superb maple cabinet and several carved maple chairs. These articles with the Van Dusen portraits have been collected in the west wing of the Senate House as a distinct collection of memorabilia connected with the Forsyth family. A representative of the state architect's office who visited the Senate House this week stated that there was no such collection of rare articles in any of the museums belonging to the state. In acknowledging Mr. Forsyth's gift, Judge Cleaver, president of the Senate House Association, stated that his gifts with two exceptions constituted the most important benefaction received by the trustees since the organization of the association.

Mrs. Lewis Will Lecture Tonight
